Cathy Slayton

Cathy Slayton serves as an ICS Solution Architect for Infor (www.infor.com) consulting services. She is involved in all pre-sales consulting opportunities within the public sector and healthcare industries.

Cathy has over 15 years of technology consulting experience in diversified environments and industries with both the public and private sector. She is a hands-on leader who delivers superior customer service and operational efficiency by effectively leveraging people, process, and technology. She is considered a trusted advisor with a proven ability to quickly identify key issues, develop strategies and translate the business needs into technical solutions for her customers. She has worked on and managed projects in state and local government, higher education, K-12, financial services, retail, insurance, energy and utility, and hospitality industries.

Prior to joining Infor, Cathy served as a Project Manager in Gartner's Security & Risk Management Practice. During her tenure, she completed a multiple of engagements as the project manager and also as the subject matter expert in areas such as: Organizational Change Management, Security Awareness, IT Governance, Identity & Access Management, Strategic Goal Alignment, IT Skills Assessment, and Security Assessments.

Cathy is experienced in PMBOK Project Management methodology and applies these common sense project management principles to establish and maintain collaborative efforts, deliver strategic business objectives, and fulfill the customers' needs. Her affiliations include the Project Management Institute (PMI), the Business Continuity Institute (BCI), the International Project Management Association (IPMA), the American Society for the Advancement of Project Management (ASAPM), and the Association of Change Management Professionals (ACMP).

Cathy is a proud alumnus of Florida State University where she received her Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology, Cum Laude. She is a native Floridian and resides in Tallahassee, Florida.
